The Greek words may be compared with an Interlinear to verify the order. Interlinears are not translated word for word into English below the Greek. An Interlinear has English words in whatever order matches the translation being used by the Interlinear. The Strong's numbers before each word were used to define the words using good Greek/English dictionaries. In both 3129 and 2010 the Greek "ω" ending indicates "I", "I let learn" and "I permit". The Greek language uses two negatives for emphasis so Paul is emphasizing the second thought. Paul expresses an opinion radical for his day- that a woman/wife should learn to teach; therefore he tempers it with a warning for a wife not to dominate her husband. The translators mistranslated and totally changed what Paul was saying.
